Release: Enhancement of Global Rates Products

As part of TraditionData’s continued investment into product quality across its broking and data businesses, TraditionData is happy to announce the addition of new and enhanced global rates content.

These improvements cover the expansion into additional non-standard tenors over existing products coupled with new rates curves therefore increasing the breadth and depth of TraditionData products

Initially, TraditionDATA will further enhance the products listed below which will then be followed by a number of additional global currencies in the coming months.
